Greetings,

I hope this email finds you well and your plans for a highly profitable New Year off to a quick start.

Today, raising capital is an advanced skill set; there is a new standard:

If you don't differentiate, break through the market clutter, capture imagination and attention and get investors motivated about your deal, then capital will raise slowly - or not at all.

If you are interested in equity or loan financing, I would be glad to assist.

We are a private financial firm that acquires well established small and lower middle market businesses with predictable revenue and cash flow; typically partnering with industry professionals to operate them.

We also have a Capital Formation Division that assists companies at all levels of development raise capital through hedge funds. We charge %1 commission at the successful closing of any deal.

Additionally, we also fund as well as we have lines of credit and term loans
